

Prof Dr Christian H. Splieth

Prof. Christian H. Splieth is full professor and head of the Dept. of Preventive and Pediatric Dentistry at the University of Greifswald, Germany. Besides undergraduate training he is also director of the according international master program. His special interest are all aspects of cariology such as epidemiology, caries management, fluorides, public health, individualized and community prevention as well as caries treatment options. He is past president of the Organisation for Caries Research and the German Association for Pediatric Dentistry.